

This is in Robohelp software..

As you can see the blue highlighted Jpg is shown on the program. Now the question I have I do have that red box that flashes and wonder if that is an issue? When I click on that I get this..

When I go to the image and see when it is used it states this: See next page.

Everywhere I check in the files everywhere this image can be found. So not sure if the html script has error or what I need to do.